

Are your children reading challenging texts?
Have they got reading stamina?

WHY NOT HAVE A READER IN RESIDENCE?

- How do you reach reluctant readers in your school and foster a love of reading?
- Do you want your children to be inspired and motivated....
- Is reading part of their lives? Something they look forward to?
- Do you want your children to be confident, fluent and accomplished readers who can talk about their preferences and recommend books to others?

I can offer 5 x sessions tailored to your schools needs bringing both teacher and headteacher experience AND an absolute LOVE OF READING

This could look something like:

Day 1: Meet the children.. I will bring a vast selection of books to inspire the children- to help them think through their book choices. Ways to choose a book that suits them. Possibly choose your reluctant readers per year group? I will then send a book home with them to read over the week. Reading Café after school.

Day 2: Meet with the same children again (1 hour sessions) discuss their books- how far did they get? Where will they go next? Shared reading.

Day 3: Book Making: There is no better way to inspire the love of reading then to make your own book.... Discuss reading choices so far.

Day 4: Parent Partnership - working with parents to discover books for themselves and their families, what to read next, reading advice

Day 5: Presentation to the school- new books to try for everybody. Celebration assembly to parents.

I can also offer single day support with:

- Parent induction packs- how to engage your child with reading.
- Book lists.
- Library support.
- Curriculum engagement and enrichment-how to embed literature in your termly topics
- Staff CPD-keeping up with the wealth of literature out there.
- VISIT TO STORYSHACK for some TIME to peruse BOOKS for staff
- Book making

Cost:

5 days minimum support = £1500

Additional days charged at £300 per day-willing to negotiate longer term 'residencies'

Half days/ staff meetings negotiable.

INSET day £350
